The Mount Airy Arts and Crafts Guild met October 21, 1969 with Mrs. Jesse Banner. Fourteen members were present.

Refreshments were served by the hostess after which Mrs. Frank Hennis, Vice president, held a short business meeting. The minutes were read and approved and the roll called. The Guild display at the "Y" was discussed and all agreed that more protection was needed for the articles displayed.

There being no further business Mrs. Hennis called on the program Chairman, Mrs. Sam Hennis, to introduce the speaker, Mrs. Rufus Walters, who was a charter member of the Guild.

Mrs. Walters said the meeting was a "feast of memories" for her. She then showed the group some of her lovely paintings and read the poems which had inspired them. "Dwarf Pine on South Street," "Pilot Mountain," "The Bell Tower of the First Baptist Church" were of especial interest because of their familiarity. "Bon Jour", "Transition", "The Way", "The Madonna of the Forrest", and others were beautifully presented with a brief story about each.

At the conclusion of the talk Mrs. Hennis expressed the appreciation of the group for an inspiring afternoon and presented Mrs. Walters with a gift from the Guild.

The Mt. Airy Arts and Crafts Guild met March 3, 1970 at the home of Mrs. Hale Yokley with Mrs. Walter James as hostess. Fifteen members were present.

After refreshments were served the president, Mrs. Reid Jackson, called the meeting to order. The minutes were read and approved with one correction. Mrs. Jackson called the mayor, Mr. Beamer, to express the feelings of the Guild members concerning the Blue Laws. It was decided to postpone plans for the Decorators Show House in Winston until a later date. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Fred Johnson on March 17th.

The meeting was turned over to the Vice President, Mrs. Sam Hennis, who presented the speaker for the afternoon, Mrs. Hale Yokley.

Mrs. Yokley gave a most informative and interesting talk on the Why, Where and How of House plants. She showed several books which she had found helpful and demonstrated how she had started plants in small containers, & plastic bags to be transplanted later. At the conclusion of her talk she took us on a tour of her gardening area and showed many beautiful plants she had grown.

We were inspired to try our more or less green thumbs on some house plants of our own, using her recipe of 1 bag of potting soil, 1 bag of peat moss, & 1 bag of Vermiculite. A gift was presented to Mrs. Yokley. Respectfully submitted
