C-NC V.I.P.s (Very Important Pops)

Equal Time for Fathers

Sammy Cheek
father of five

Lester Inscoe
father of two
Butler Plant employee

With Father's Day right around the corner, and since we honored C-NC moms in our last issue, it's only fair we give our dads equal time.

Being a dad is a tough job with few rewards. And speaking of rewards, we don't mean giving him a tie once a year, though ties are nice. This day is the one time a year we are reminded to give credit where credit is due, to our dads.

So, we're taking that little time out to give recognition to all you C-NC dads, thanking you for your expressions of love, your strength, and for being there when we need you the most.

There is an old story about a father who overheard his son praying. "Dear God," the son prayed, "make me the kind of man my Daddy is." Later that evening the father prayed, "Dear God, help me to be the kind of man my son wants me to be."

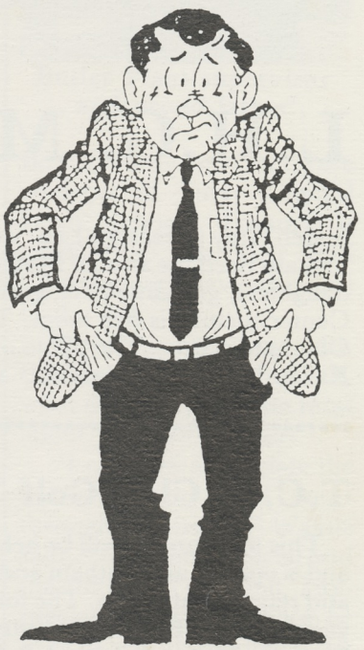

The fathers we approached were quite serious about being a good father and any one of them could have prayed that prayer. And they all were aware of just how tough a job it is to be the right kind of dad to their kids.

"What's important about being a father?" we asked Sammy Cheek of the Napping Department. "The most important things are loving them, doing things together and helping them when they need help," Sammy answered. Sammy is the father of five: Reece, Neil, Keith, Kevin and Nancy, and the grandfather of two little girls. He should know what's important.

Also in the Napping Department, Roy Lyon was happy to say how proud he is of his family. Roy is the father of two daughters, Mary and Doris, and he has four grandchildren. "My daughters and my granddaughters are about the most important thing in my life," Roy said with a big smile. He agreed wholeheartedly with Sammy about what is most important about being a good father.

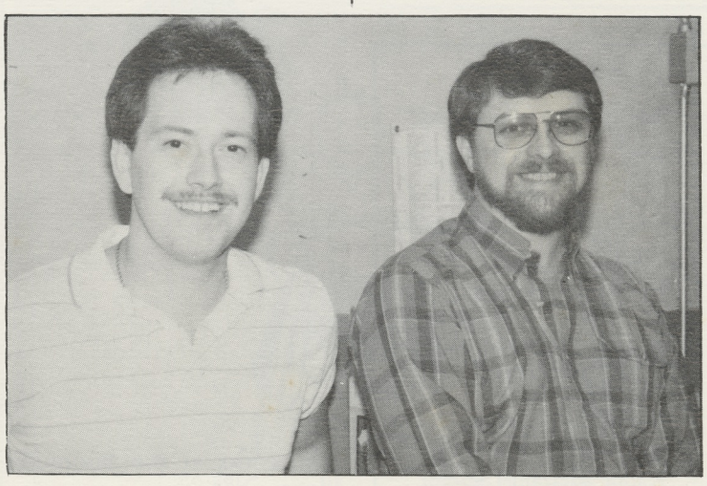

Mike Cheek is another happy dad we ran into as we scouted for C-NC dads. "It's so good to go home at night to my son," Mike said. "It's someone who depends on you. You love them and they love you. My son's first words

Never did I meet with a father that would not cheerfully part with his last shilling to save or bless his son.

An attic is where you store junk you would throw away if you didn't have one.

Now that I'm over the hill, I guess I'll enjoy the view.

were Da-da,'' No doubt that Mike loves his little nineteen month old Christopher.

Sam Gentry has been the very proud dad of LeAnna Sumer for two years. For Sam, one of his favorite things about being a dad has been ''watching LeAnna grow.'' But soon, LeAnna will have to share the photo spaces in her dad's wallet, because Sam is to be a father for the second time and the baby is due any day. Sam is our mail clerk and a Shipping Department employee.

A coworker of Sam's in the Shipping Department is Jeff Newman. Jeff is the father of nine year old Maranda, who is a third grade student. Jeff loves to hear Maranda sing and is proud that she will get up in church to sing solos. He enjoys talking with his daughter about things she experiences each day.

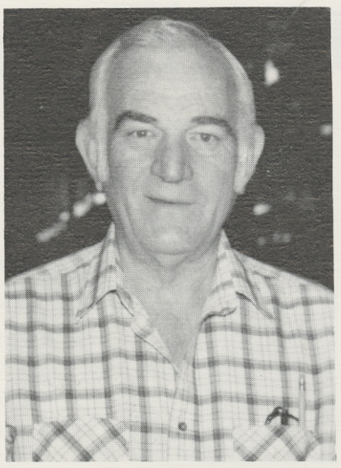

Kerby White is a third shift supervisor at the Butler Plant. He has one daughter, Miranda, who is a straight ''A'' student. She is a student at Dobson Elementary and is in the third grade. Kerby is proud that eight year old Miranda has never missed a day of school.

''The best thing about being a father is watching them as they grow up,'' said Lester Inscoe, also a Butler Plant employee. That's the best thing. I also like it when they are happy. When they're happy, it makes me happy.''

Lester works third shift as a sparehand. He is the father of seven year old Amanda and eighteen month old Lance. Amanda made him a proud pop by making all ''A's'' during her first year of school.

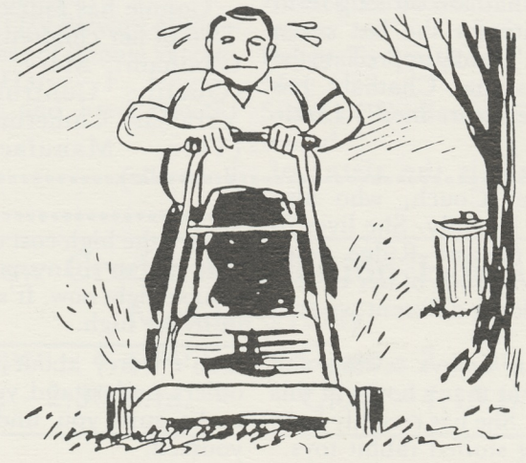

Wayne Payne is the department head of our Knitting Department. He just became a dad for the third time. Five week old Daniel Scott, weighing in at a whopping nine pounds and ten ounces, is little brother to eighteen year old Thomas and sixteen year old Cheryl. Both Tommy and Cheryl are students at Surry Central High School. Tommy is graduating this year and Cheryl enters eleventh grade in the fall.

Wayne's question was, ''Being a father yourself, what do you appreciate most about your own father?''

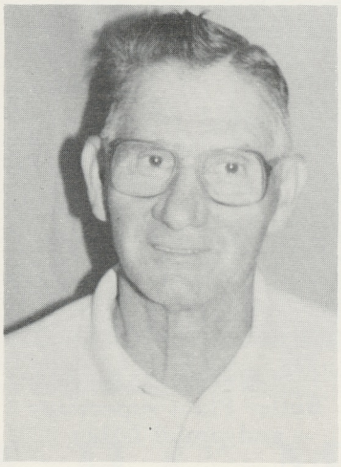

''I can now appreciate the hardships my dad went through to raise us,'' Wayne said, ''both the financial and the emotional part of it. I appreciate the good advice he gave us. He always told us 'It doesn't take any effort to be a nobody, but it takes some effort to be a somebody.' I've told my own kids the same thing.''

We thank these dads for sharing some of their thoughts about fatherhood and to all you other C-NC dads...

Happy Father's Day!

Retiring

Roy D. McGrady

Roy McGrady has worked most of the past forty-four years in the Carding Department here at Chatham. Roy said, "I have enjoyed working here. I have always had good supervisors and I will miss my coworkers."

Roy enjoys fishing, especially for trout, and all types of hunting. He is hoping to get in lots more time for both fishing and hunting now that he is retiring. His other plans are just to "enjoy life" and take care of his small vegetable garden.

Roy and his wife, Myrtle, have two children, Danny and Brenda. They are the grandparents of three.

Connie Mankins

Connie Mankins liked doing her job here at Chatham, especially during the time she trained new employees. She says she "really liked training new spinners." Connie worked in the Spinning for eighteen years.

Ironing is a task that Connie likes to do (honest, she really does), but she hates to wash clothes. She enjoys cooking, mostly baking, and one of her specialities is fresh coconut cake.

A trip to St. Louis is planned to see her grandson, Jeffrey Dobson, graduate from advanced training at Fort Leonardwood. Connie would also like to do some other traveling. She has been busy with her community service work with the Little Richmond Community Council and the Little Richmond Womens' Club. She helps visit older people in the community and anyone in need. They aid people who have had fires, hardships, etc.

Connie has four children. Two of her children work at Chatham: Mary Dobson (Quality Control) and Veramae Catherine Sales (Yarn Manufacturing, Boonville).

Pauline B. Bell

Pauline Bell is very proud of her two granddaughters, Jeannie and Patti. Jeannie and Patti are the daughters of, and Pauline is the mother of, Steve Bell who works in our Engineering Department.

Harold Bell, a Chatham retiree, is Pauline's husband. He formerly worked in the Production Control office.

Since there will be more time for things she enjoys, Pauline has made herself a list which includes doing crafts and cross stitching, traveling with her husband, flower gardening, and visiting all her friends.

Pauline came to work here for the first time in 1945, worked for awhile in the Burling, left to have a baby, and returned in 1948. She is retiring from the Burling, first shift.

Lizzie E. Couch Retires

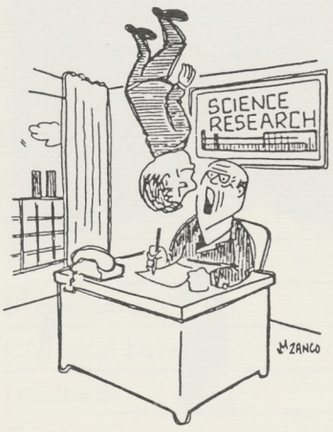

Lizzie Couch worked 18 years in the Weave Department, but she has been away from Chatham on long term disability for the last seven years. "I really appreciate the benefits that Chatham has provided for me," Lizzie said.

Lizzie is the sister of Herman Couch, who also retired recently. She lives in the Pleasant Ridge community. Much of her time is spent doing different types of crafts.

Lizzie enjoys sewing and has spent many hours at this hobby. She has recently been making stuffed rabbit toys.

It isn't the high cost of living that has so many people in trouble right now. It's the cost of living high.

Don't worry about whether others understand you. Just make sure you understand yourself.

"Don't just stand there! What have you got that's new?"

Then and Now Answer

Vickie Hartwell is a first shift employee in the Yarn Manufacturing Department at Boonville. She has been at Chatham since 1977 when both she and her husband, Roy, came to work here. Roy is also a Yarn Manufacturing employee.

Ways to say 'very good' even better

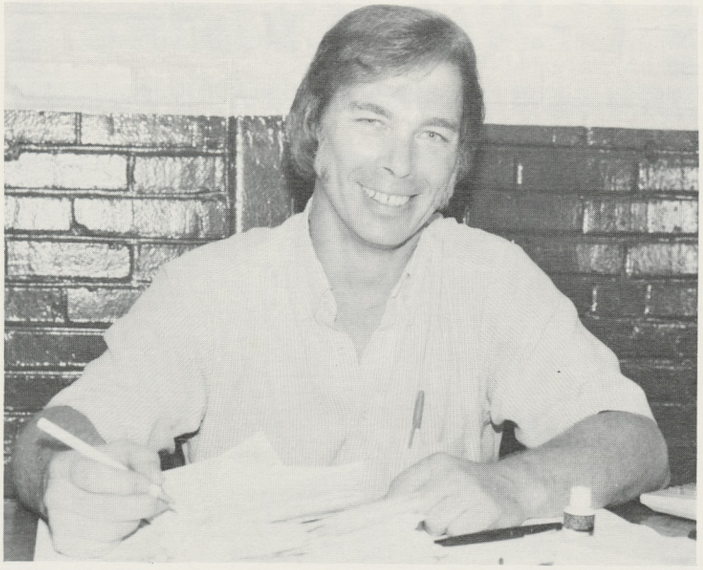

When you want to let someone know you're pleased with their work, remember the cardinal rule of praise: Be specific. Place your compliment on one specific piece of work, and it will be more meaningful.

The Sylvan Learning Corporation has written 99 Ways to Say 'Very Good' for use in its learning centers. Here are a few that you may not have used before:

1. That's IT!
2. It's all RIGHT!
3. Now you've figured it out.
4. One more try and you'll have it.
5. You're on the right track.
6. That's the WAY!
7. That's what I call a fine job.
8. Good remembering!
9. Good thinking!
10. Your brain's really in gear today.

Walk Your Way To Good Health

"Walking increases our tolerance to stress and enables us to enjoy living more," says Dr. Samuel Fox, past president of the American College of Cardiology.

One British study finds that people who walk 20 minutes or more to work every day have a third fewer circulatory problems than those who drive their cars. Their hearts are more efficient.

In another test, done by the University of California at Irvine, researchers had a group of women walk from one to three miles each day. They ate what they wanted, but after one year, their average weight loss was 30 pounds.

To start your own walking program, the American Medical Association gives this advice, especially for people who have not walked much before:

- Start out slowly. Only walk as long as you are comfortable with the effort. Don't stress yourself at first.
- Make your first goal be walking one mile in 20 minutes. Don't tire yourself beyond the point where a short rest relieves fatigue.
- Increase the distance as soon as you can comfortably walk a mile in 20 minutes.
- Slowly increase speed and distance until you can comfortably cover three miles in 45 minutes. Gaining this level of strength, however, could take some time, so don't be impatient. Just keep walking your way toward better health.

After forty years of hard work, Smith retired with a comfortable fortune of $350,000.00 which he had gained through courage, diligence, initiative, skill, devotion to duty, thrift, efficiency, shrewd investment, and the death of an uncle who left him $349,999.50.

C-NC Cuisine

Bonnie Layell and Janice Shermer

Sisters Janice Shermer and Bonnie Layell work about thirty feet apart in the Restwarmer Department. Both are second shift employees. Janice is a ten year employee. She was persuaded by Bonnie to send us her popular cherry pie recipe.

Jan's Cherry Pie

4 cups fresh sour pitted cherries
3 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca
1 cup sugar or to taste

Mix and let stand for 15 minutes. Pour into saucepan and cook until thickened. Pour into 9 inch deep dish pie crust. Top with Pecan Topping (recipe below) and bake in 350° oven for 25 minutes or until crust is browned. Place pie on cookie sheet before baking in case it spills over a little.

Pecan Crunch Topping

⅓ stick margarine, softened
½ cup oatmeal
⅓ cup self-rising flour
⅓ cup sugar
½ cup chopped pecans

Mix together until crumbly.

Bonnie has been employed here two years. She says her sister Janice is the good cook in the family, but Bonnie's recipe sounds pretty good too.

Pineapple Delight Cake

1 box Pillsbury Lemon cake mix

Add ingredients as directed, but divide evenly in three 8-inch pans instead of two. This will make the layers thinner. Bake at 325° for 30 minutes.

Icing

1 large can crushed pineapple in juice (15 oz. size)
2 eggs
1 stick margarine
3 heaping tablespoons self-rising flour
1¼ cups sugar
1 can flaked coconut

Combine all ingredients except coconut in a saucepan. Cook over medium heat until thick, stirring constantly. Add coconut. Cool, then refrigerate until cold through. This will make it easier to spread. Fill layers, top & sides of cake. Decorate with pineapple slices and cherries with stems. Refrigerate until ready to serve.

Many of our men and women are good cooks and enjoy trying out new recipes. If you would like to share a recipe with your coworkers, please give the Personnel Department a call at 529 or 530.
