

Dear Jessie:

The Woman's Club was very active and involved in the Sixties and Seventies. There were numerous accomplishments, but I don't remember if any were those of my term or others. My memories run together and can't be counted on for much. However, I do remember some little things which might be of interest:

1. We always had delicious and elegant refreshments, made from scratch and graciously served.
2. Attendance was excellent, cooperative and enthusiastic.
3. The Calandar Project made us big bucks even back then.
4. Some of our best programs were products of our own members, like the wonderful review of Dag Hammershield's book by Kathleen Gilleland and Patti Marion's fashion show which Montaldo's couldn't equal.
5. The pipes froze from time to time.
6. My greatest problem every winter was lighting the oil stove, but I was blessed in this and every other problem. Eleanor Cooper could get anything going with the greatest of ease.
7. My fondest memory is when I was presented the loveliest silver vegetable dish at the end of my term. It remains one of my greatest treasures.

In summary, I guess the building presented me with some frustrations since I remember the stove so well, but all other memories seem to have melded into just one pleasant recollection of the Woman's Club President experience. I hope we accomplished some good things, but I can't say for sure.

Sincerely,

Julia
