

THIS IS HOW THE COMMUNITY CENTER WILL LOOK

The architect's drawing of the proposed Community Center building for Mount Airy is shown above. The building will be located at the corner of Pine and Dixie streets, necessitating the tearing down of three houses there. Cost of the building has been conservatively estimated at $450,000, and work reportedly may begin in the near future. The building will contain three levels and will house, among other things, a gymnasium, indoor swimming pool, bowling alleys, farmers' lounge, and club rooms. It has been announced by officials of the Community Center Foundation that any questions or comments by the public concerning the building will be answered during the Open Forum to be conducted by members of the building committee Sunday at 4:45 p. m. over radio station WPAQ, to which the queries may be written or telephoned.
