Catus Hill Cemetery

Cemetery Mapping

Locating forgotten cemeteries and all cemeteries is important information to prevent disturbing any final resting places in the process of building and developing land. For years, North Carolina has encouraged historians and others to record the locations of cemeteries county by county. Anyone can contribute to the inventory by contacting The Surry County Planning Department at 401-8350.

This spring, my daughter, Sallie Vaughn, and I were helping Marion Venable expand the inventory of cemeteries in Surry County. Mrs. Venable had published a previous listing in 1977, but had missed some cemeteries. The work involved finding the cemetery from information people called in to Mrs. Venable, counting the number of graves, noting on a graph the position of head and foot stones or depressions, taking a GPS (Global Positioning System) reading, and recording the information on all the headstones. Once Sallie and I understood how to record the information, Mrs. Venable asked us to visit some cemeteries on our own.

Catus Hill Cemetery

Quite often abandoned cemeteries exist right under our noses and we never know they are there. Such is the case with Catus Hill Cemetery near the intersection of Highways 52 and 89. Catus Hill Cemetery was rediscovered when dirt from an adjoining lot was removed to fill in the low areas during the construction of Roses and Independence Avenue. I say "rediscovered" because many people knew its location, but were powerless to stop developers from cutting into the grounds. As a result, according to oral accounts, several coffins were dug out and the cemetery was "rediscovered." The unfortunate ones disturbed from their resting place were dumped unceremoniously in a heap at the east end of Mountain View Cemetery. This is a prime example of why it is so important to register cemeteries.

Catus Hill Cemetery has been there a long time. According to an article published in the Mount Airy News, May 21, 1995, written by Miss Ruth Minick, it has been used since the late 1700s. She states, "[the] cemetery still exists in a grove of trees just north of the intersection of Highways #52 and #89. Most markers are gone, but a researcher did find a tombstone dating from the late 1700s." Unfortunately, Miss Minick did not state who the researcher was so this date cannot be substantiated at this time.

According to Mrs. Josie Moore who lives on West Virginia Street, the cemetery was named Catus Hill. Others say the property was donated for a cemetery by a preacher named Catus. Whites knew it only as the "Colored Cemetery" whereas African Americans knew it as "Catus Hill Cemetery."

Before new roads were built and expanded, Virginia Street (previously Needmore Street) went up the hill beside the now existing Bright Leaf Drive-in and into what is now the Sandy Level Community. When Independence Avenue and Highway 52 cut through Virginia Street, part of it was abandoned. West Virginia Street, across Highway #52 and through Sandy Level, is the remains of old Virginia Street that continued on to Piper's Gap Road. Catus Hill Cemetery was visible from Virginia Street and Mrs. Moore recalls walking past it as a child. The abandoned part of Virginia Street is still evident as an old roadbed behind the new Bank of America and joins the exit road from the drive-in.

Sallie and I went to Catus Hill Cemetery on a warm day in March. Our intentions were to get a GPS reading, record the information on the headstones, and to count the graves. We were expecting a few headstones and a few graves. We hacked our way through the weeds into the cemetery from the drive-in theater. The adjoining property lines have been surveyed recently and we noted the bright tape around the trees.

We were astonished to find hundreds of graves, shoulder to shoulder, head to toe. We fought our way through the briars realizing that the job would be impossible for two people to do. We went to all four property lines and found grave after grave some marked with fieldstones, a very few with headstones still readable, and depression after depression of sunken graves right up to the property lines. The cemetery is so overgrown with briars that it was impossible for us to get an accurate account of the number. I estimate 600 to 800 graves.

Who were these people lain to rest on a now forgotten hill? The McRaes, the Stewarts, and the Fergusons are there. Who else? John Mittman says his grandfather was buried at Catus Hill in 1939. Where to find out who is buried there?

Then I heard of Moody Funeral Home's records of funerals. Betty Camin and Anne Stewart recorded the burials Moody's handled from 1903 to 1913 before Surry County kept records of deaths. Several phone calls later and a visit to Betty Camin's web site, I downloaded those records. After reading a few entries, I decided I needed to look at Moody's records for myself so I could understand what the entries meant.

In Moody's record books, some people were buried at the "Colored Cemetery." I cannot be absolutely sure this designation meant Catus Hill, but Martha McRae who died on March 18, 1903 was listed as buried in the "Colored Cemetery" and her gravestone, one of few, is in the Catus Hill Cemetery. Several of the Fergusons, Stewarts, and McRaes were also buried there as is indicated in Moody's records and have headstones in the cemetery. If "Colored Cemetery" was the name Moody's used to designate Catus Hill Cemetery solely, then in the space of ten years from 1903 through 1913, more than 217 people were buried there, much less than the number of graves.

What Camin and Stewart did is remarkable. It must have taken months to record all the information. I took their work, revised it to include only African American deaths, and added more information than they included. Having done genealogy work on my own family, I know how delightful each discovered item can be. Maybe it doesn't matter to anyone else, but knowing that a certain preacher conducted your great aunt's funeral or that her father or a friend paid for her funeral does make a difference to you, the family. What I left out of the entries is how much the funerals cost and how the family paid for the funeral. One in particular sticks out in my mind. A family lost a baby; the funeral cost $3.50, the price of the casket, 2 feet in length. Their payments are recorded: $1.00 in money, another $1.00 a week later, and the rest paid off in kind in washing. It breaks my heart to see how dear those dollars were to a grieving family, but they paid it off completely.

So why should I care about these people? I do. Each one, even the numerous babies and children were a part of this community. Each one contributed to this community in some way. Each one deserves to be remembered, if not with a headstone, for we will never know who is buried in those depressions, at least with a list that includes their names. This list is a beginning. I hope others will take an interest in Catus Hill Cemetery and add to the list so that these souls will be remembered, not forgotten. I also hope the community will take an interest and help clean up the cemetery.

A few notes on the records kept by Moody Funeral Home and how I compiled the list:

1. Anyone can see the records kept in two closets in books titled by year.
2. The number listed here is the same number listed in the actual records.
3. People are usually designated by race, however, some are not. I added to the list those who were not designated, but had preachers that I knew to be African American and/or were buried in traditionally African American cemeteries.
4. Often the cause of death is an illness that is misspelled. I have tried to correct the spelling when I could. In the later years, the location of a person's death was included. I added that information in parentheses next to the cause of death. Johnson Street was a short street off Needmore, now Virginia Street, and no longer exists. Neither does Schafer Street that was off Rockford Street. The Rural Routes have changed. Please refer to the added information from the Mount Airy City Directory 1913-1914 for the locations of these routes. Others, such as Combs Town, Nelson Hill, Tucker Town, etc. are local settlements, many still in existence.

5. In the Mount Airy City Directory for 1913-1914, the following African American churches are listed:

Mallalieu Temple A.M.E. Church—Rev. P. I. Wells, Pastor

Mt. Calvary Baptist Church—Rev. J. P. Sommers, Pastor.

(Moody's records list him as Summers.)

Wayman Chapel, A. M. E. Church—Rev. R. L. Tillery, Pastor.

Edward Webb Presbyterian Church—Rev. S. L. Young, Pastor.

None of the addresses are included in the listing. Only churches within the city limits are included.

6. Doctors names are listed as they are in the records. Robt. H. and RBH is Robert Hollingsworth; JMH. is J. M. Hollingsworth; EMH is Edwin M. Hollingsworth; Ashby is T. B. Ashby.

7. Quite often the person who secures the cost of the burial is an employer that will give the researcher another clue to the life of the deceased. The initials "B. A." are Burial Association. Initials "I. O. O. F." is the International Organization of Odd Fellows. However, Moody's incorrectly lists it as "I. O. O. F.—Col." According to the Mount Airy City Directory of 1913-1914, "Colored Secret Orders: Odd Fellows—G. U. O. O. F." is the correct name. I do not know what these initials stand for, but suspect the 'G' is a typo.'

8. Persons not buried in "Colored Cemetery," such as, State Line (State Line Baptist Church Cemetery) and Ararat (across from Spencer's box factory on Mountainview Drive), are listed as well as those buried in family or area cemeteries. I do not know where many of these cemeteries are. (If you do, make sure they are inventoried.)

9. This list may contain errors although I have tried to eliminate any. I have abbreviated some items where Moody's records abbreviated and do not intend this as a slight to any person, religion, or place. If you have questions, visit Moody's and see the records for yourself. That is the only true way to know for sure.

10. I welcome any corrections to the list. If you know of any corrections, additions, or information, please contact me at 786-7279. Also, contact The Planning Department at 401-8350 if you have knowledge of any cemeteries that should be included in the Cemetery Mapping Project.

Minister's Diary Valuable Source Of Information

Now to resume the set-up of Mount Airy as listed in Branson's Directories of 1867-68 and 1869. We had just finished the schools, and will now go on to the churches.

The Rev. Mr. Marquis Lafayette Wood was the only minister noted in the Mount Airy vicinity. He was the pastor of both Salem and Oak Grove and at Mount Airy which at that time was the only organized church in the village.

The then single Rev. Mr. Wood had been minister of the Mount Airy church in 1858. It was he who engineered the move from Lebanon on North Main to South Main since the town was "growing that way." He visited around a lot and kept an invaluable diary of his daily activities, both religious and secular. He undoubtedly loved to socialize.

He then left Mount Airy the next year to serve as a missionary to China. Married twice, widowed twice, he remarried a third time which wife came with him to Mount Airy. He also brought home with him from China a little Chinese boy whose name was Hazee, who remained in Mount Airy where he married and established a family.

In late 1867 the Rev. Mr. Wood was again assigned to Mount Airy but, alas, his diary is not as full and detailed as his previous one.

William Rawley was listed as a supply preacher. (A supply preacher is not an officially ordained minister.) "Brother Rawley," as he was called by his friends, and "Parson Bill" by the general public, was a resident of Mount Airy and a prominent businessman.

It is interesting to note that Stuart's Creek Primitive Baptist Church, "Old Hollow," the nearest Baptist church in the area and the oldest church, had no mention at all. Why? Was it the wish of the congregation? Elder Johnny Jones preached there since he was moderator for the Fisher River Primitive Baptist Association to which the Baptist churches belonged, and was listed as minister for several. The Missionary Baptist Church had not yet gotten a foothold in this immediate area.

RUTH MINICK

In 1869 another church in Mount Airy was being organized, the "colored" Methodist church. Blacks in those days were referred to as "colored." This church grew into the present Mallalieu-Jones Methodist Church.

Its first place of meeting was down on Virginia Street, then called Needmore, where the just-freed blacks settled. A notation in the Rev. Mr. Wood's diary confirms this when he notes: "Preached at night for the colored people in Mount Airy, Needmore Street." The year of notation was 1870. In an 1895 issue of the Yadkin Valley News there was an item stating that a new church was being built by the colored people down on Needmore. This evidently replaced the earlier church.

Up to 1871 when the last black member was noted in the South Main

Methodist Church blacks were regular members of the church. Their marriages were performed by the Methodist pastor, their funerals preached by them. They were buried in their own cemetery which still exists in a grove of trees just north of the intersection of Highways #52 and #89. Most markers are gone, but a researcher did find a tombstone dating to the late 1700s.

The same cannot be said of the old white cemetery behind the then Blue Ridge Hotel. There is no trace even though older residents as late as a few years ago noted periwinkle still growing in spots. The new cemetery down at the South Main Methodist Church became the city cemetery at the same time the church was built. Little Victoria Allred, daughter of Murphy, was the first grave noted, in 1857.

The Rev. Mr. Wood had these items in his diary which pertained to the black members:

"Went to the colored people's graveyard, near Mount Airy, to bury a little boy who died yesterday." (1868)

"At four o'clock I baptized two colored persons and took them into the church." (1868)

"Married General Neill (Neal?) and Margaret Fulton, colored, at parsonage." (1869)

The Rev. Mr. Wood in his diary mentioned his many visits to some of the folks in whose homes he spent the night. He eventually went to board at Mrs. Rachel Moore's who had taken over the hotel business of her father, Elisha Banner.

Here are some random entries in his diary:

"July 1869. This afternoon from 130 to 150 persons, men, women, and children passed through Mount Airy on their way to Utah. They were leaving this county. Most of them had joined the Mormons."

"Spent the day with wife and with the Siamese Twins. We went to the home of Chang which is the smaller and left-side one. They landed in this country the 16th of August 1829 and were 59 years old. They were born, I think, May 21, 1811. They told me how old they were when they came to this country and when they landed. They are kind and entertaining."

"In the afternoon went to Salem and held a church trial. Expelled Mrs. ——— for slander, and Mr. ——— for gambling." (Sorry, folks, the preacher mentioned names but this writer will not.)
