BULLETIN BOARD CONTEST WINNERS ANNOUNCED

In the bulletin board dressing contest sponsored by the Young Patriots of N. S. H. thirty four out of fifty home rooms entered. The theme of the contest was "Thank you, Lord, for these Freedoms." The boards were judged on the basis of patriotism art, message, and originality.

The bulletin boards were judged last Friday afternoon. In the vocational building Mrs. Aldridge's homeroom captured first prize, and Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Norman tied for second place; 1st wing Mrs. Ramsey's homeroom first place; Mrs. Bondurant's homeroom, second place; 2nd wing, Mr. Walsh's homeroom won the first prize, and Miss Keller and her homeroom won second place; In the last wing, Mrs. Staples homeroom received first prize and Miss Salmons' homeroom second.

The judges for the contest were the Rev. Dewey Baily, Mrs. Katie Draughn, Mrs. Ruth Hawk and Mrs. Barbara Hollingsworth.

Over all, Mrs. Aldridge's room won first, Mrs. Staples' second, and Mrs. Ramsey, third.

PANCAKE JAMBOREE WELL ATTENDED

The annual Kiwanis Pancake Jamboree was held here on last Friday evening and Saturday morning. Approximately 2,600 persons attended the Jamboree, a record number.

Members of the Key Club, the Keyette Club and the National Honor Society, helped during the Jamboree.

The N.S. band and chorus gave splendid performances in the gymnasium during the Jamboree on Friday evening.

Seventy-five percent of the net profit is to be given to our school. The remainder of the net profit will go to the Kiwanis Club Foundation for educational and charitable uses. Portions of the profits will be placed in our athletic fund, and in our band/chorus fund.

SNOW CLOSES SCHOOLS

An additional day of the Thanksgiving holiday was gained last Wednesday when a three-inch snowfall closed all the schools in this area. The Bark, scheduled to be sold on last Wednesday, is understandably full of Thanksgiving items, which outdated now, hopefully will still be of interest to the readers.

COACH KING'S COMMENTS

"I think we'll be ready." That statement was made by our varsity basketball coach, Ron King, in looking ahead to this season. Coach King remarked that the injuries to John McDaniel and Bernie Young will hurt them. However Young should be back within two weeks after the beginning of the season.

"We scrimmaged East Wilkes last Wednesday and did pretty good. We made a few mistakes, but that was due to presses and different defenses we haven't gone over. Coach King also stated that right now the Hounds are going over fundamentals and doing a lot of running.

"We don't have any superstars." But we do have good quickness and the best morale I've seen. This team really wants to win. Gary Payne and Gerone Penn should make up for our lack of size up front with their excellent jumping ability."

Would you like to be Coach-of-the-Year? Coach replied, "It would be nice, but I just want to win! If this team plays together, well, you never know."

On Time's Beach

The water moves silently forward, then falls with a roar. It roars and flows toward a still figure, alone and waiting for--for something--something needed or lost long ago. Grey clouds scurry in, bringing a salt taste of seawater and cool damp air. He sits between tufted dunes of cold, colorless sand. A thin wisp of a breeze lifts his hair to peer into his eyes. Reflections of gray sky, gray water, gray world, lie where once were swiftly flashing thoughts of life, quiet pools of calmness, or vivid mirrors of love. Quicksilver laughter had rippled his face into lines of joy and understanding of men. Now his face--a smooth, blank, sculpture--turns, listening to sea roar, sea breeze, sealife--a gull's shrill cry; a soft pushing, lapping by the cliffside; rustling washes of air pushing tentative fingers of wild oats toward him. Time, like the water, eddies and flows around him. Then--far and low--a call--for him? A young voice--is it real? Or is it the tricks of sea water rushing? The sound seems to go--but he has to catch it, he has to become a part of the sounds again. Slowly, painfully, fearfully, he rises up and reaches for the cane--and stumbling slightly he turns sightless eyes toward the faint sound of voices and life.

Fear No More the Heat O' the Sun

A parody of William Shakespeare's "Fear No More the Heat O' the Sun" from his play Cymbeline.

Fear no more the heat O' the sun,
Nor the field which is so bad;
Thou thy seasonly task has done,
Home art gone, and ta'en thy pads.
Backs and line alike someday,
As gridiron heroes, fade away.

Fear no more the frown o' the coach;
Thou art past the assistants' wrath.
Feel no more as a small roach,
Stepped upon in a giant's path.
The glory, agony, and ecstasy someday,
Seem so huge, then fade away.

Fear no more the films' uncandid views,
Nor the all dreaded sled on Monday;
Fear not slander, from the Mt. Airy News;
Thou hast finished all sadness and gaiety.
All athletes young, all athletes someday
Play their last one, then fade away.

No opponent harm thee!
Nor no referee charm thee!
Fans unsatisfied forbear thee!
And solid be the rung,
Where thy cleats shall be hung!

AM I A CHILD?

Why can't they understand?
Don't they have a heart?
They're treating me just like a child
That from them cannot part.

I am growing up now,
I have my life to live.
And to you and only you
My love I want to give.

They should understand this,
But I don't think they do.
Maybe I should tell them
I'm going to marry you!
