

Appeared in The New York Times on December 21, 1970 / Obituaries / Chubby Dean

Chubby Dean Obituary

Chubby Dean, 54, Pitched For Athletics and Indians

RIVERSIDE, N.J., Dec. 21 (AP) — Alfred Lovill \(Chubby\) Dean, a pitcher for the Philadelphia Athletics and Cleveland Indians in the nineteen thirties and forties, died today at his home, 319 Middleton Street. He was 54 years old.

After his baseball career, Mr. Dean was director of athletics for the Army at Fort Dix and for the European Command at Nuremberg, Germany.

He was a distant cousin of Dizzy and Daffy Dean, pitching stars for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Survivors include his widow, the former Jean Edinger, a daughter, Donna, and a brother, Dayton, retired athletic director for Duke University.

Dean, a lefthander, began his major-league career as a first baseman. In eight seasons, he compiled a pitching record of 30 victories and 46 losses.

Chubby Dean

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

Jump to: navigation, search

Chubby Dean

Pitcher / First baseman

Born: August 24, 1915

Mount Airy, North Carolina

Died: December 21, 1970 (aged 55)

Born: August 24, 1915
Mount Airy, North Carolina

Died: December 21, 1970 (aged 55)
Riverside, New Jersey

Batted: Left Threw: Left

MLB debut

April 14, 1936 for the Philadelphia Athletics

Last MLB appearance

September 5, 1943 for the Cleveland Indians

Career statistics

Win-loss record 30-46

Earned run average 5.08

Batting average .274

Teams

- Philadelphia Athletics (1936–1941)
- Cleveland Indians (1941–1943)

Riverside, New Jersey

Batted: Left

Threw: Left

MLB debut

April 14, 1936 for the Philadelphia Athletics

Last MLB appearance

September 5, 1943 for the Cleveland Indians

Career statistics

Win-loss record 30-46

Earned run average 5.08

Batting average .274

Teams

- Philadelphia Athletics (1936–1941)
- Cleveland Indians (1941–1943)

Alfred Lovell Dean (August 24, 1915 – December 21, 1970) was a Major League Baseball pitcher and first baseman. He played for the Philadelphia Athletics from 1936 to 1941 and the Cleveland Indians from 1941 to 1943.^[1]

From 1943 to 1946 Dean served in the military during World War II.^[2]

Chubby Dean

Pitcher / First baseman