Coming with the wind's edge, a resolute, fully committed Eastern Tech baseball team, led by pitcher Mark Tucker, used its home's pressure, thanks to its ground ball hitting, to defeat the visiting Knights of the University of Pittsburgh 5-3 on Tuesday night at the University of Pittsburgh's Doherty Park.

Leading Eastern pitcher, 7-3, in his fourth consecutive start, Tucker, pitched a complete game, allowing only three runs, two earned, on six hits and one walk. Tucker's ground ball hitting, which accounted for 11 of the 15 runs scored, was the key to Eastern's victory. Batter up!

Big time investment baseball is coming to Del Norte and Curry Community College districts this week.

Last weekend, the Knights posted their final record to 35-7 with a 4-1 win against Louisiana in the Region II tournament in Huntington, W.V.

The victory — which ended a five game unbeaten streak in the title — gave Curry Community the honor of hosting a National Junior College Athletic Association regional tournament beginning Friday.

The winner of that tournament earns a berth in Grand Junction, Colo., for the 20th NCAAC Baseball Championship Tournament scheduled for late September/October. The 1990s national tournament begins May 20.

The Knights have a good shot at making that team. Coach Mark Tucker will assist coach Roy Veronek in coaching the Knights to a No. 3 national ranking in the NAIA NCAA poll.

Tucker in 1987-1988 led the Knights to a 20-10 record. Only one of those seasons produced a losing record — his first in 1986 — and five have produced winners with at least 16 wins. In fact, you have to go back to 1966 to find a better team with fewer wins. It was a success.

So they have the leadership.

They are also loaded with talent.

Superman John Graham, the 2000 Region II Player of the Year, leads the group. He is one of five Knights named to the All-Region X team — Graham and sophomore Steve Wilson are the first team selections.

Other highlights are first team selection Tony Harris, sophomore Gary Tibby and sophomore Nathan Phillips, a fourth year graduate, on the second team.

This is a successful team for us and for the program as a whole.

Now it's time for the rest of Curry County to give their own support to the Knights.

The team has done it again by winning games and representing the college and the county.

We need to show our support for them.

For the moment the first ball is thrown and we cheer the Knights on.

What all fans should be doing is giving the Knights a shout out in every game.

We'll be there, cheering for the Knights in every game.

Man uses SCC course to remain new career

By Steve Kistner
Staff Writer

Steve Kistner

Chris Smith, a 35-year-old man with a long career in the insurance industry, found himself at a crossroads. After 15 years of working for a large insurance company, he decided to start his own business. However, he needed to gain more knowledge and skills to succeed in this new venture. He enrolled in a course at Southern Community College (SCC) to help him in this endeavor.

Smith, who has a Bachelor's degree in Business Administration from the University of North Carolina, found the course at SCC to be a valuable addition to his education. He said, "The course provided me with the necessary tools and techniques to manage a business effectively. It was a great experience and has helped me in my current business." Smith's business, which he started in 2005, is now thriving, and he credits the course at SCC for much of its success.

Smith's story is a testament to the power of continuing education. It shows that it is never too late to learn and grow. The course at SCC provided Smith with the knowledge and skills he needed to succeed in his new career. It was a great investment in his future, and it has paid off for him in many ways.

A Life in Coaching

Founding SCC baseball among Matarige's many accomplishments

By Steve Kistner

Steve Matarige, a man with a passion for coaching and a commitment to excellence, has spent his life in the sport of baseball. He has coached at various levels, from youth to college, and has achieved many accomplishments along the way. One of his most significant achievements was founding the Southern Community College (SCC) baseball team.

Matarige's journey in coaching began in his hometown of [Location]. He started coaching youth baseball at a young age and quickly developed a reputation for his coaching skills. He went on to coach at the high school level, where he led his teams to numerous state championships. His success at the high school level led to a coaching position at SCC, where he founded the baseball team in 1985.

Under Matarige's leadership, the SCC baseball team has become a powerhouse in the region. They have won several national championships and have produced many professional players. Matarige's coaching style is based on hard work, discipline, and a focus on fundamentals. He believes that these qualities are essential for success in baseball.

Steve Matarige, left, with the SCC baseball team. Matarige is the head coach of the team. The team has won several national championships under his leadership.

Matarige's coaching career has been a long and successful one. He has coached for over 30 years and has a wealth of experience. He has coached at the youth, high school, and college levels, and has a deep understanding of the game. He has also coached in various countries, including the United States, Canada, and Mexico.

Matarige's coaching philosophy is based on the idea of "teaching to win." He believes that the only way to win is to teach your players the correct techniques and strategies. He emphasizes the importance of fundamentals and hard work. He also believes in leading by example and being a role model for his players.

Matarige's coaching career has been a journey of discovery and growth. He has learned a great deal about himself and the game of baseball. He has also made a significant impact on the lives of many young men. He is proud of the success of the SCC baseball team and looks forward to continuing to coach and inspire for many years to come.

SCC turning dream of being a nurse into reality

By Steve Birkoff
The Staff Writer, Student

OBITUARY — You may be surprised to learn that the College of Health Sciences has the dream of being a nurse as a reality.

The college has graduated 100 students with associate degrees in nursing since the program began in 1975. However, the college opened its National Nursing program in 1983. All the students have completed their programs. These students had been in the three-month program for two years. However, the department is aware that it is not being done long.

"Nursing is truly a noble, noble, beautiful profession," said David H. Brown, director of the College of Health Sciences at SCC. The college has made a commitment to help those who are being helped and who are the source of services to other people in the world.

Brown said that many of the nursing students have wanted to be nurses for years. One other alternative kept them away.

"This is how willing they had been to do it," Brown said. "They were willing to do it even if it meant that they would have to work in a hospital. Our the nurses in the 1980s who were studying had the same goal. They were willing to do it even if it meant that they would have to work in a hospital."

The Family Literacy Program was expanded last year to include a $100,000 grant from the state that will help SCC and other participating schools to help students and families from disadvantaged areas.

The state, through the Literacy Fund, will provide $1 million to SCC, voluntary non-profit organizations that are committed to helping students and their families.

The grant will go to the state's voluntary literacy programs, including the Family Literacy Program.

TRIP—Helen Good, Paul Reed (in suit), executive director of the Delta Delta chapter association, explains some of the town's history to Sarah McBride, Teresa Howell, hostesses, Susan Smith and Tom Gage.

Trip illustrates potential for area growth

By Bob Ross

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—A breakfast trip to the heart of Memphis was made last fall, a group led by Helen Good and J. Paul Reed, executive director and president, respectively, of the Delta Delta chapter association, to see the town's history and opportunities about opening the business there.

"I was very well prepared for the trip," said Helen Good, Delta Delta chapter president, wearing her Delta Delta sash. "We had our own agenda for the trip, and we were very successful in our goals."

The group spent Thursday evening and Friday morning with Delta Delta Delta chapter members, including Helen Good, Paul Reed, hostesses, Susan Smith and Tom Gage.

"I have been with a good feeling that we can do it," said the group's leader.

A perfect equity for SCC

In the discussion on Commonwealth College's status, I have written several times. The one which deals with a possible solution of an equity problem is especially difficult to write and to say through. I have to be prepared, if nothing would happen in the next few days of the "Save Commonwealth College" campaign, to be writing another article.

SCC student receives alumni scholarship

Michael Joseph Pitt, a graduate of Fair Park High School in the first instance of its 75th Anniversary Celebration, has been named the recipient of the Fair Park Scholarship. Pitt is attending an Associate in Science degree program in education with plans to transfer with the University of Oklahoma program offered by the State Community College system through Fair Park.

"Congratulations to our graduate and to our great Fair Park 75 anniversary in general and the Fair Park Scholarship. I hope to complete the Law School program and become a forensic lawyer. My hope is to work at Fair Park, Fair Park High School and give back to the community that has given me such a great life."

The Fair Park High School Alumni Scholarship was set up in 1974 when the Board of Fair Park High School set forward $10,000 to the University of Oklahoma. The scholarship is an annual $1,000 award to a student who is a graduate of the school. The scholarship program is administered by Fair Park High School. The Board is currently looking for a sponsoring firm for the University of Oklahoma College students. Pitt was a board member of the Fair Park High School and will continue Fair Park. The scholarship fund, which dates back to 1974, is currently looking for a sponsoring firm to maintain and administer the scholarship fund. WILMINGTON — Surry University's College volleyball team has been selected to compete in the Division III National Championship tournament in North Carolina.

In 2009, the team finished 22-14 and earned the 10th seed in the Division III national championship tournament in North Carolina.

The team's leading scorer is sophomore outside hitter Kaiti Rasmussen. She has 100 kills and 100 assists in 2009.

"There's a lot of talent out there," said Coach Steve Smith. "The competition is going to be tough, but we're going to give it our best shot."

Smith said the team is excited to compete in the national championship.

Historic house becomes labor of love

In This Place
By Gary News Service

HOUSTON — In a place where houses and old-time living were together with history and the real government, Mrs. Moore holds on to her house.

In 1932, a man named Robert T. McCalla bought a house in the rapidly growing area of Dallas Springs, one of the subdivisions, the one he built and had a son of 10 years, but didn't keep up with local taxes, like Mrs. A.G. and Mrs. John McCalla.

McCalla was a contractor, a 10-year-old school teacher who was married to Sarah in 1904. The couple had 10 children.

In 1940, the house was sold to Mrs. Elizabeth Moore, widow of William Moore, a local merchant. The house was sold to Mrs. Moore in 1940. The house was sold to Mrs. Moore in 1940. The house was sold to Mrs. Moore in 1940.

"I had an accident when I was 10," Mrs. Moore said. "My husband and I bought this place."

Mrs. Moore had inherited the house from her father, William Moore, who died in 1877. The house, 20 years old then, was sold to Mrs. Moore in 1940. The house was sold to Mrs. Moore in 1940.

"I inherited this house in 1940 and with the help of my three children, my daughter, Mrs. Moore, and my son, Mr. Moore, I have been able to keep it up."

Mrs. Moore actively watches a car pass on the road in front of the McCalla house. The house was completed for the first time in 1932, and was restored and remodeled in 1956 for the public. Mrs. Moore does not live in the house, but instead rents it out as a night lodging for guests staying in town.

... "I grew up here," Mrs. Moore said. "I have a lot of good memories here." ... It is the house where her husband "started his medical career" after receiving from World War II. He then moved to Dallas. ... In 1932 the house had just been built in Dallas which is now a thriving city. The original building, owned by Mr. Moore, was destroyed by fire in 1932. During the Reconstruction of 1932, the McCalla house showed a new look in modern style and was still a single story house. It is now a two-story house. ... Through the years, Mrs. Moore has been able to keep it up.

STATION — High Regan, dean of Dickinson College at 1000 Lombardy, College, wasn't concerned at the enrollment drop in Dickinson this fall semester in 2007.

"I don't see enrollment as a concern for the next several years," Regan said.

Enrollment in many college classes programs at 100, is around 100,000 in 2007, some general and with increased or decreased enrollment at the overall program which had a similar trend over 100,000 in 2007, says Regan. Fire stalls plant's workday

By Carol Steiner
Staff Writer

In the first three quarters of this year, Elkin's largest employer, a Tennessee aluminum

Smelting and Refining Company, was down from 100 percent to 70 percent. The reason: a fire that started in a plant shop and spread to the main building in the city.

Henry Whaley III, the plant's chief, said the fire is believed to have started after a spark from one of the plant's two shops was blown to the plant work and into a large duct air intake line leading into the building.

The plant's fire-fighting system—a computer system that controls sprays to be released and activates sprinklers—was not a problem in the plant, where fire life systems are in place. It was in the main building that the system failed, but the plant and city fire departments arrived in 15 minutes.

"The system here was not in action before the workers in the machine room shut down the plant," Whaley said. "It would be like that shop was a little room with the windows for only one door on it."

The plant's fire-fighting system worked to contain the fire until the Elkin Fire Department could get to the scene about 10:30 p.m.

In the past, he had experienced fires that had to be put out, the building's Whaley said. "But this was not the same."

The Elkin Fire Department was called to assist and the U.S. Coast Guard Department was placed on standby in case the fire had spread to the dock area. The firefighters, who were not yet in the building, were not able to get to the fire but it started to retreat.

The fire in the building is the largest Elkin has had in 100 years. In the past, most were in the shops. The fire started in the shop that produces the main building's air intake system.

"The fire was in a room of the plant that was not occupied," Whaley said. "It should be an industrial fire, not a residential fire."

The cause, most of the plant's fire departments and firefighters are still investigating the fire, Whaley said. The fire started in the shop that produces the main building's air intake system. The fire started in the shop that produces the main building's air intake system.

The fire was contained by 4:30 p.m. when the firefighters moved to the scene.

Identifying customers key to a successful business

By BRUCE GIBNEY
Staff Writer

Elkin's small business community is growing, and identifying customers is a key to success. Through identifying customers, small businesses can identify potential customers and provide services that meet their needs.

The Elkin Small Business Center is a resource for small businesses. The center provides information on how to identify customers and how to provide services that meet their needs.

"Every business owner should identify their customers," said Dennis Lowe, director of SCC's Small Business Center.

"The market research component of a business plan is very important, even though it's time consuming."

Loew offers advice, will aid in writing business plans for fall competition

By BRYAN GENESTY
Staff Writer

DORCHESTER—As the Director of Youth Community Capital at Small Business Enterprise, Louis Loew teaches entrepreneurs the process of business planning, and he helps them find and secure investment that helps small businesses to grow better.

Loew said that writing a business plan helps entrepreneurs to see a business in a better way. Planning, he said, is often a business's chance of succeeding or failing, and of being successful.

The speaker's second annual Business Plan Competition is also an opportunity for entrepreneurs to develop their business plans and submit it to the Small Business Enterprise office for consideration and to be judged by the Small Business Enterprise judges.

Loew is prepared to help people develop business plans for the competition. The Business Plan Competition application request form can be obtained from Small Business Enterprise website at www.sbe.com.

of the market, advice of the business owner, and the entrepreneur's own ideas. Loew said that the most important thing is to have a business plan, a marketing plan, a business plan, and a financial plan.

Loew described each of these business plans and how they are written.

Business Plan . . . is the business owner's plan, which is the type of business which they are going to operate. Loew said.

SCC grad living sweet life with Krispy Kreme

NEWS BY — When asked what conditions he desired for his new business, Jeff Kiser said he wanted to be able to work from home, have a flexible schedule and have a low overhead.

When that bill was presented before the House on Friday, Kiser, a Republican, withdrew his bill, but he said he would re-introduce it in the future.

It is, however, the only bill that has passed in the House since the start of the session. It is the only bill that has passed in the House since the start of the session.

What he would like to do is to have a business that is profitable and that can be run from home.

It is a problem of how to run a business that is profitable and that can be run from home.

Students learn about career opportunities in health care

2004/03 — Twenty-five high school students are one of the best results of four annual activities sponsored by Sunny Valley High School, including three career exploration camps.

Students from East Valley, South Valley, and Central Valley, along with students from North Siskiyou and North Clatsop high schools participated in Camp Med 2004, a health care career exploration camp sponsored by the 19th JVAH in Long-Term Care Partnership, Southern Medical Health Services and the Southern Medical Health Education Center at White Forest Baptist Hospital. Students from various high schools in the county, all their applications, grade point averages and recommendations of high school teachers are provided.

Throughout the week, students explore a health care field, gain practical work experience through shadowing of the profession. The week-long camp is led by the business professional teaching program, Jeffrey K. White, Ph.D., University of Oregon, Medical Center, Eugene, Ore., and developmental coordinator, Thomas H. White, Ph.D., University of Oregon.

CHATHAM — Surry's 4-1 win on Friday, Oct. 10, against Wake Forest State means the Knights are now 5-0 in the regular season and the streak of the road won't be broken until the final game of the season on Tuesday before South Mecklenburg Community College and Springdale High School.

Vernon leads Surry in 10 kills, 30.7%, 15.7%, 20.25 and 10.00. Surry's top scorer is Scott.

The team's home leader is Scott, followed by Scott, 10.00 kills and 30.7% kill rate. Scott's 10 kills are the team's highest.

"That's the best blocking game I've had yet," says Vernon. "That's why I want to keep blocking the ball."

"I would like to see more blocks and better free balls. We need to get a good free ball and I think we had to work on it. That's why we were having a hard time to play off the ball in a game which was behind for most. Surry's 10th straight win was the last during the Lady Knights' 5-0 win against Danversburg Methodist on Tuesday. Scott posted 10 kills and 10 digs in the match.

No idle time for artist

By Wade Martin
Blackburn High School

0000011 — "Thinking back to my time at Blackburn, I remember seeing a poster for a workshop on how to be an artist."

After a three-year wait as a student, Blackburn, he was chosen to be the artist-in-residence at the art center at Berry Community College.

After a year of teaching art, he was asked to design and photograph.

"I think I would be a good fit," he said. "I got a lot of experience, and I had worked on projects that I enjoyed for the last 10 years."

Knights earn volleyball victory

COLLEGEVILLE, Md. — The Early Community College Knights left an early National Junior College Volleyball tournament here today after a 2-1 victory against Southwestern Methodist in Washington.

The Division II Knights and 17 high school stars from Columbia Heights and Upper Merion, Pa. finished with a big win over Terry (Central High) University today at the 10:15, 10:30, 11:00 AM games.

Eleventeen Knights were on the court as Terry's game on the Knights took spectacular 18-16-16-16-16-16.

"That makes a big difference," coach Tom Stone said. "After tonight's game when we're coming in, we're going to be better."

Stone said the team needed to win to get a leg up on the Knights when they return.

"You just don't panic, no matter how many points you're behind and you're losing," he said. "My own best experience is the 1980 game. We lost 3-0 when I came in as a 10th grader."

The Knights 15-11 victory at Collegeville, Md. is part of a 10-game tournament at Howard Community College in the area.

SCC volleyball finishes strong in Md. tourney

By Dave Ross

COLLEGEVILLE, Md. — After eight hours, Community College's volleyball team finally prevailed in a tournament play against much larger opponents.

The Knight's finished third in Sunday's League tournament at Howard Community College, competing in the early National Junior College Athletic Association Division II event in the 10:15 AM time slot in the tournament over NCAA Division I opponents.

They coach Tom Stone said the Knights finished last but they don't look forward to playing the Knights.

"Most of the coaches tell me we have a good team," Stone said. "They give us respect and they say they hope we don't go to school 1, College like that."

After a six-point tie in the tournament, including a victory of Maryland's past when the Knights took care of the tournament in Sunday morning the College of Southern Maryland, and lost, stepping heavy in the consolation bracket.

From there, the Knights played tonight and 2-1, winning three more points per set another time in the kind of fashion they had anticipated there in a third game. Stone said he is proud of the tournament.

Coach said the spirit of the tournament, playing more after games on Monday was to tell us that.

"We played well, they played in on the wall," Stone said. "We played all the way to the end."

Despite losing, Stone said the team was pleased to come home with a big time. He also played several with Howard, 1-0-0-0-0-0.

"I don't know what happened to play the second Division 2 schools," Stone said.

The Knight's 2-1 final was caused by the all tournament team and the most of Knight's equal ground of a consistently high level, making it difficult for opponents to see in the tournament phase.

Stone said it was the kind of job coaches who were doing that.

"Somebody else played well in terms of the wall. Nobody really stood up. It didn't end there, somebody would stand up for us."

Stone 12-4 earlier in the tournament, when Columbia Valley Community College ranked the top three. He said he is a good, healthy in Collegeville.

MacLeod receives Surry Community College's 'Excellence in Teaching' award

CHERRIE — Renee MacLeod is the recipient of the Surry Community College "Excellence in Teaching" award. MacLeod is a highly talented and progressive instructor in the Advertising and Graphic Design Technology program.

The North Carolina Community College System established the "Excellence in Teaching" program in 2003 to recognize college instructors who consistently demonstrate excellence in teaching and service to their students. MacLeod's exceptional dedication and expertise are recognized by receiving this award, the highest honor in the field. She will receive her award at the annual award ceremony on Oct. 15.

Each year, Surry Community College faculty will vote on their students' overall academic performance. The award is presented to the instructor who is voted the best teacher by the students.

MacLeod comes to Surry in 2002, bringing with her a wealth of classroom and professional experience.

She obtained her undergraduate degree from Surry Community College in Boone, Massachusetts. She earned her Master's Degree in Education from Middle Tennessee State University. She also earned her Bachelor's Degree in Education from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

From 2000 to 2002, she worked as a teacher of English and public relations. She worked at Winston-Salem as a business public relations for Alan Lake House. Her expertise is in business, public

SCC announces contest winners

The State Council Economic Development Authority, State Community College, the United States Area Chapter of Consumers and the Yukon Valley Chapter of Consumers met to announce the winners of the 1987 Small Business Plan Competition.

The first annual competition was open to a group from the Association of Regional Communities and participants by local business men throughout the state.

To be considered participants were given Yukon Valley Station data as well as the opportunity to visit the site. In their own words, an advisory committee developed a series of criteria which will be used to evaluate every entry, including: marketing plan, financial, technical and personnel.

Regional representatives included by Mrs. J. 2003, in an announcement was announced by Arthur Adams, Business Advisor, Office of State and State and Lynn Williams of Yukon Station, a business development specialist. Their participation shows a strong interest in the region's economic development.

Prizes for the first three places were $1,000, $500 and $250. The second place winner will receive $1,000 and the third place winner will receive $500. The winners will receive a certificate and a plaque.

Second place went to Sherry Prokopyuk and Tom Dostal of Yukon Valley Winery, Inc. The winners received all prizes and a certificate to the growing season in the State of Alaska.

This year was awarded by Arthur Adams and Lynn Williams.

Hamlin, Mabe take part in national study

STRENGTH — Dr. Kenneth and Lita Mabe, co-directors of the 1987-88 research project "The National Study of the Role of the Family in the Education of Young Children," have been selected to participate in an investigation being conducted by the National Commission on the Education of Young Children (NCEYC).

The NCEYC is the nation's largest non-partisan, non-political organization devoted to improving the quality of programs for children from birth through kindergarten. The study will be designed to meet the needs of the nation's 20 million children aged 0-5, and to provide a "snapshot" of the nation's public and private early childhood education of young children.

The distinguished research director of the NCEYC, in addition to conducting the study, will coordinate the participation of educational institutions for the study which will use the national study findings to help improve the quality of young children's education.

According to Dr. Kenneth Mabe, the national study will be conducted in 1988-89. The NCEYC has selected Dr. Kenneth Mabe as the national study director and Lita Mabe as the national study co-director. They are in Chicago, Ill., at the National Commission on the Education of Young Children, Chicago, Ill.

Ken and Lita Mabe have worked in the education field for 20 years in the public and private sectors. Dr. Kenneth Mabe is currently the director of the National Study of the Role of the Family in the Education of Young Children. He is also the director of the National Study of the Role of the Family in the Education of Young Children. Hospice home proposed for Surry County

By Susan Brown,
The News-Sun Staff

MOOREHEAD — Residents of Surry County are working through the process of forming a regional and nonsectarian body to serve its patients in the coming year.

The proposed district has been formed to provide an alternative to hospital care for terminal patients when they "check out," but to be organized as a hospice.

It will be a non-profit organization with members, but the board will be elected, and the board will be responsible for providing a wide range of services to the patients of the south of Albemarle and Surry counties, including the counties of Halifax and Wayne counties. The board is expected to be organized in the next few months.

SCC trustees discuss security measures

By Steve Kover
The Davis News Service

MEMPHIS — Security and safety issues affecting a large number of students during the 1985-86 school year were discussed at a meeting of trustees of the Southern Christian Community College (SCC) on Monday afternoon.

Although there are no current problems, Vice President of Student Services Michael Williams recommended a program which would place students based on their participation in classes as a measure. The program is based on the report in Memphis to discuss about the status of student safety.

"It is a good idea having the staff discuss with some of the staff. Now, if you have, how to make sure that you are not getting into trouble," Williams said. "I think you should be more aware of the situation and be prepared to handle it."

Williams also recommended that the college should place students based on their participation in classes as a measure. The program is based on the report in Memphis to discuss about the status of student safety.

New firing range joint effort by city, SCC

By Susan Brown, Staff Writer
The Daily News Service

DEVELOP — The site of Mount Airy's new firing range has been selected, announced the city and the Community College, which intends to do the construction of the new facility.

"After I come to work here at Mount Community College there was already a plan set up for the firing range," said Don Brown, director of Law Enforcement Programs at SCC. "The city will own and construct the site, but we will manage it."

Brown said that Jim Campbell, who owned the property on Old Dixie Road, was needed to construct it. It is another one of his projects that he is doing on the site, which is located in Mount Airy in a new development.

Mount Community College, which operated at a location on the old range, moved to a garage in the new campus development.

"I had three 100-ft. ranges, one about 100 ft. long, and the other two were 150 ft. long and had the support structure in place," he said.

Brown said that a range will be built and another will be built and another will be built. The project will also provide a range for a future use.

in concrete and the structure of the site.

"The range building will also include two 100-ft. ranges," said Brown. "There are already two 100-ft. ranges and Mount Airy had a concrete structure in place."

"Mount Airy has provided most of the money for the building. All the money that we have into there will be in construction."

Brown said that it would be to build the 100-ft. range for the community and the 100-ft. range for the city. "I can't suggest enough money to do this project," he said. "I would like to see the city build the 100-ft. range. I can't build the 100-ft. range."

The project will be a joint effort between the city and the college. "The city will build the 100-ft. range and the college will build the 100-ft. range," he said.

"We need more of it, but we will build the 100-ft. range," he said.

Craft guild will preserve heritage, encourage tourism and create jobs

By JUDITH BISHAM
Assistant Editor

PHI BETA LAMBDA — With the backing of an Ohio County economic development plan for promoting tourism in rural areas and tourism development in both a governmental and private sector, the Bowling Green Area Craft Guild is now focused on its mission to preserve and promote local crafts.

The guild, according to members of its Board of Directors, will have dual purposes: "to help the quality and quantity of the local craft and to help the preservation of them and develop and encourage the public to buy local craft items. Craft will help preserve our heritage and help people realize the benefits of supporting local businesses and craft programs."

Some of SCC's finest students now serving as college ambassadors

BERKELEY — When approximately 1,000 new students arrive on the campus of Santa Community College each year in early spring, many of them will be greeted by smiling students like the ambassadors who have been selected by Santa Community College students.

These college ambassadors, known as ambassadors, are members of the Santa Community College Ambassador Program. They will be available to welcome new students, meet them in appropriate personal help situations, answer questions and direct them around campus.

Steve Wilson, president of College Transfer Advancing and sponsor of the Santa Community College Ambassador Program, said "The Santa Community College Ambassador Program is one of the best reasons students should transfer from a college to a university and vice versa. It provides an opportunity to make their transition from college to university smooth and successful. It also provides the college and the Santa Community College Ambassador a mutual recognition of their value and contribution to the college and the university."

The solution for jobs in Yuba County is opening in the arts, a local guild says.

Recently announced in the county's representative, The Yuba Valley Craft Guild, is looking toward being part of the solution to the county's economic woes.

The craft guild hopes to develop a craft industry that draws state, national and federal dollars to Yuba County. These dollars will be used to create jobs.

The members who have been making work of late are a mix of artists and craftspeople. They are working in a variety of media, including wood, metal, glass, ceramics, and fiber arts. The guild is also working to attract national and international attention to the county's craft industry.

With the support of the Yuba Valley's long-term craft industry, federal and state governments, the guild is planning to bring out a new arts and crafts fair in the county's representative. The fair will be held in the county's representative, the Yuba Valley, the craft guild's representative.

CC program helps students prepare for workplace

2002 — In an effort to help students prepare for the workplace, the University of North Carolina at Charlotte has implemented a new program called the Career and Technical Education (CTE) program. This program is designed to help students gain the skills and knowledge necessary to succeed in the workforce. The program is a partnership between the university and the business community. It provides students with hands-on experience in various fields, including information technology, health care, and manufacturing. The program also offers internships and job shadowing opportunities. The goal is to ensure that students are well-prepared for the challenges of the modern workplace.

Some of the fields represented in the program include information technology, health care, and manufacturing. The program is designed to be flexible, allowing students to tailor their education to their specific career goals. The program also offers a variety of support services, including career counseling and job placement assistance. The program is a key component of the university's commitment to providing a high-quality education that prepares students for the workforce.

UNC, lawmakers disagree about taking community college grads

By CARL H. ROBERTS
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. — Governor Pat McCrory and lawmakers in North Carolina are at odds over a plan to allow community college graduates to transfer into the state's four-year universities. The plan, which would allow students to earn up to 60 credit hours at a community college before transferring to a university, has been met with resistance from some lawmakers and university officials.

The plan would allow students to earn up to 60 credit hours at a community college before transferring to a university. This would significantly reduce the time and cost of a four-year degree. However, some lawmakers and university officials are concerned that the plan would devalue the four-year degree and that it would be difficult to implement.

University from both sides, says a spokesman for UNC. The spokesman says that UNC is not opposed to the plan, but that it is not ready to take the necessary steps to implement it. The plan would require changes to the state's higher education laws and regulations. UNC is currently reviewing the plan and will make a decision in the coming months.

Students serve as college ambassadors

More than 300 students serve as the campus of their local high schools' college ambassadors. Under the leadership of the Office of Student Activities, these students are trained to help prospective students learn about the college and its programs. They are also responsible for providing information to the public about the college's programs and services.

These students are members of the North Carolina High School Athletic Association's College Ambassador Program. They will be selected to represent the college at various events, including the annual College Open House, which is held in Raleigh, N.C. in October. They will also be responsible for providing information to the public about the college's programs and services.

Big night out for Regional History Museum

The annual gala event, sponsored by the Mecklenburg County Historical Society, was held at the historic site of the Cross Creek Country Club. The event was a big success, with many guests and a large amount of money raised for the museum. The night was filled with music, dancing, and a variety of other entertainment. The museum is a great place to visit, and the annual gala is a great way to support it.

SCC considers adding professional crafts degree

By BRIAN GENTY Staff Writer

Students at Santa Clara Community College have long been producing crafts for sale, but now they may be able to earn a degree in the process.

Angela Rose, a senior art major, is one of the students who has been working on a degree in the field. She is currently a student in the college's art program.

The college is currently considering adding a degree in the field of professional crafts. The degree would be a two-year program.

Fishing trip leads to invention by local man

By RYAN HENTY
 Staff Writer

Gary Ball of Pine Mountain recently invented a device for an underwater fishing platform by using 3D glass.

The device, The Automatic Bait (TAB), which is made on the ground out of 3D and other materials, could allow fishermen to fish in the ocean. It's a great way to be out on the beach. It's powerful and lightweight, so it's easy to use, he said.

He started to fish on the beach when he was growing up, he said. Fishing at the ocean was never what he did. All kinds of fish were out there with the whole range of sizes from a mouse to a blue marlin.

When they were open, they were big. It's a trip at the ocean that was something about being out there. He had bought a new motorboat to use when he was out there for his and to catch fish. Finally, he started to fish in the ocean. He was out there on the beach when he was out there for his and to catch fish. Finally, he started to fish in the ocean. He was out there on the beach when he was out there for his and to catch fish.
