C-NC Party Time

Even the threat of rain couldn't dampen the spirits of party goers. At the annual party for Chatham retirees and long service employees, there was a fun atmosphere and everyone enjoyed the day. A crowd of about 700 filled the R.T. Chatham Park and red, white and blue balloons and yellow striped tents brightened the overcast skies.

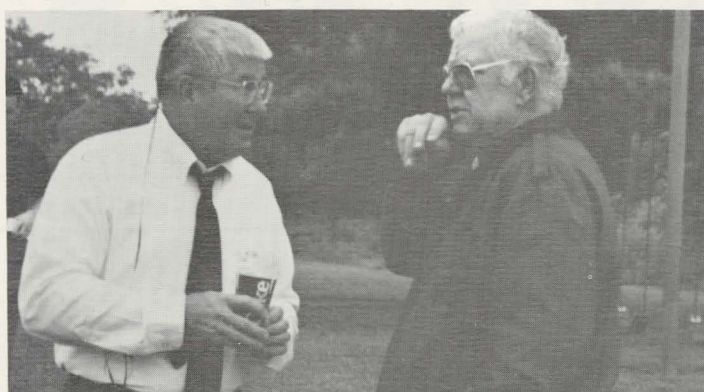

Northern Chatham Bedding Company, Inc. President John Hansen greets Chatham retiree Louise Long.

Beatrice Welborn, Florence Cox and Frances Pardue look over the scrapbooks of past parties. Scrapbooks are kept up-to-date by the T.C.U. Club.

Share-A-Joke

The Joys of Aging

I have become quite a frivolous old gal. I'm seeing five gentlemen every day. As soon as I awake, Will Power helps me out of bed. When he leaves I go see John. Then Charley Horse comes along and when he is here, he takes a lot of my attention. When he leaves, Arthur Ritis shows up and stays the rest of the day. He doesn't like to stay in one place very long so he takes me from joint to joint. After such a busy day, I'm really tired and ready to go to bed with Ben Gay. What a day!

Jeff Snow (Warp, second) was plenty happy about catching this flat head catfish on Labor Day at Claytor Lake in Virginia. The fish weighed 27 pounds and was 40 inches long. Said Jeff, "Sure wish I could have caught him during the Chatham fishing contest." Jeff is the son of Joyce Snow (Worsted) and the brother of Benny Snow (Shipping).

A Special Gift

“It is art that we hope will inspire and challenge Chatham employees. Accept the challenge of the painting...”

Johs. Petersen

Following the party for long service and retired Chatham employees on September 7, a group of about 40 people gather in the director's room of the main office building at Chatham. The gathering is for a special purpose.

It is our honor and pleasure to receive a gift of art, a gift to the Company and to the people of Chatham and Northern Chatham, a gift from our parent company, Northern Feather, and the H.O. Lange Foundation. The artwork is a painting by the well-known Danish artist, Mr. Mogens Andersen.

Chatham President, Alan Payne, opens with a short welcome and introduces Northern Feather President, Johs. Petersen.

Mr. Petersen speaks briefly about the art and the artist. “It is art that we hope will inspire and challenge Chatham employees. Accept the challenge of the painting and perhaps you will find an answer or perhaps find a challenge.”

Mr. Petersen introduces the artist, Mr. Mogens Andersen. Mr. Andersen, in his presentation speech, carefully uses words that will not influence or control the viewer.

“A painting is truly a message without words,” says Andersen, “which opens up a whole new world in the imagination, helping us to expand the limits of our knowledge and feelings.”

Mogens Andersen was born August 8, 1916 in Copenhagen. He decided at an early age that he would become a painter. In 1933 he began studying art at the Peter Rostrup Boyesen's School of Drawing and he studied there a few months each year until 1939. He also attended the Academic de la Grande Chaumiere in Paris.

What he remembers most about those years of study was learning the importance of the whole. “We had to be able to draw a figure's rhythm and plasticity in a tensely living movement from the foot right up to the top of the head. Into this organic whole, the details were then to merge themselves, emphasizing and amplifying the character of the great rhythm.”

Andersen served as president of the Danish State Art Foundation from 1977 through 1980.

Andersen's private exhibitions have shown in Copenhagen, Sweden, Paris, Warsaw, Belgrade and Budapest. He has shown in group exhibitions in Europe and the U.S.A.

from Denmark

His major works decorate the Central Library of Copenhagen, the municipal council rooms at Gentofte Town Hall, the Technical University of Denmark, the Museum of Modern Art in Bochum, Germany, the conference rooms of Northern Feather and many other locations around Europe.

The painting presented to our Company is a handsome representation of the relationship developing between the people of our two companies as we blend into one large international group. It is a material reminder of the new friendships made between the people of our two countries. We have come to notice more of the similarities and less of the differences.

The five-foot oil abstract now hangs on the wall of our director's room, a symbol of the "new" Company. It is a modern piece of art, painted in black waves over bright blue and green shades of background promising a future to which we can look forward.

It is more than a gift of art. It is a gift of promise.

Ed Borden, Chatham board member, stands to the side as Alan Payne pulls the cords for the unveiling.

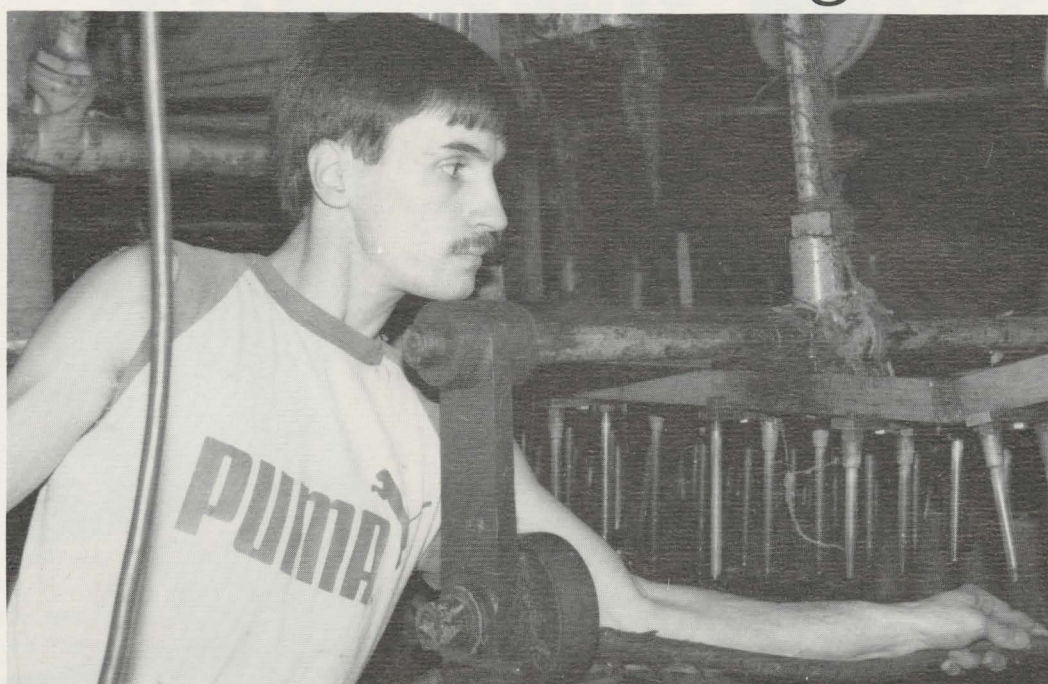

The Mogens Andersen painting hangs in the board of director's room.

Ginger B. Collins graduated from Gardner-Webb College with a Masters Degree in Elementary Education, K-4. Ginger is also a graduate of Appalachian State University with a B.S. degree in music. She is the daughter of Lois Blackburn, Burling and Warren Blackburn.

If the knocking at the door is loud and long, it isn't opportunity - it's relatives.

Nobody wants to make house calls anymore. A man called an exterminator and asked if they killed rats. "Sure thing," said the exterminator. "When can you bring them in?"

The only thing wrong with the younger generation is that a lot of us don't belong to it anymore.

Each Sunday the minister called the children to the front of the church for a sermonette. One Sunday he brought a telephone to illustrate his story. "You talk to people on the phone and don't see them, don't you? Well, talking to God is like that. He's on the other end, but you can't see him. He's listening though."

One little boy raised his hand and asked, "What's his number?"

After waiting for a long time for a woman to finish using the telephone directory, a man finally offered to help her find the number she wanted.

"No thanks," said the woman, "I'm just looking for a nice name for my baby."

Laugh It Up!

A good laugh can improve your health as well as your spirits. The study of getology (the science of laughter) confirms that laughter:

- gives practically every organ of the body a workout
- can banish stress, lighten anxiety, and temporarily relieve depressions and pain
- may be good for chronic conditions such as arthritis
- may be good for high blood pressure since it relaxes arteries and improves blood flow
